THOUGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS.

(By a Lady Contributor.)

Dr. Blauvert of the Brooklyn board of health ascribes the falling off in the number of prostrations from heat to the fact that more attention is being paid to proper diet. Deaths from heart-failure and similar causes are nearly always after the victim has partaken of a hearty meal. During the heated term, the simpler the diet the more comfortable the individual. Sudden death lurks in all stimulants, and especially are we warned to "look not upon the wine when it is red." Whether special emphasis is meant to be placed on the clause "when it is red" we cannot say, but the stickler might find comfort in an off color, but watch your diet. What you are at this season more than any other depends upon what you eat.

Senator Bailey's sale of his north Texas farm seems a fulfillment of the prophecy that he would eventually set up his lares and penates in the East. For a long time even his most loyal partisans have had to confess that he was off with the old love and that his is a case of, "My body is in Segovia, my heart in Madrid." It is to be hoped that he will not forget the ladder by which he climbed, while basking in the sunlight of the approval of the great men of the East.

Of all the Rooseveltian policies, perhaps the most tactful was his idea of retiring voluntarily from the stage before he was pushed off, as is shown in his retreat into Africa. At the psychological moment he set sail to his self-imposed Elba—as some one facetiously expressed it. But mark the prediction: Upon his return he will hold his place in the limelight for more than ninety days.

Those who think he is spending these days in a monotonous round of pumping lead into inquisitive and accommodating lions are more than mistaken. Some great idea is incubating under that African helmet, that will astonish and amuse an expectant world when he comes marching home. So long as Teddy retains his strenuousness, whether in the seat of the mighty or behind it, he will be the cynosure of all eyes. Like the star-eyed Egyptian, "age cannot wither nor custom stale his infinite variety."

For the summer, The Eagle's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of the trolley between Bryan and College. When the dog-days swoop down upon us, taking the starch out of our energy and evaporating all interest in earthly things, except the hammock under the shady boughs and the long ice-clinking glasses, trolley talk revives enthusiasm, though all else fails. We still talk about how it will increase trade and enhance property values, all the while sitting as serene as Baby Billikins, waiting for the other fellow to take the initiative. Mr. Parker has taken the lead by securing the bonus. Let's all push according to our strength until we get that long talked of trolley line built.

What Bryan needs is a big Booster Meeting. Nothing succeeds without advertising. Let's get up a slogan; let's talk Bryan and her resources from Dan to Beersheba. Let every export, from a postcard to a bale of cotton, bear some legend telling of Bryan's greatness. Let's assume an air of prosperity—a busy look. "A man there was who seemed busy, but busier seemed than he was." Yet to him business gravitates by the law that to him who hath (or seems to have) shall be given.

Hon. Cullen Thomas comes out declaring that his voice and his vote are for Cone Johnson, speaking of the latter as one of the "Wise Men of the East," in the same class as the immortal Hogg. The present "encumbrance" got in on the plea that he was a disciple of Hogg. In consideration of this fact and the circumstances of his "reign," is it wise for Johnson to allow his friends to make this issue?

The most notable social function of the "high-flyers," was a piping hot breakfast in midair. This volation was enjoyed by the president of the American Aero Club and a select party of his friends, a thousand feet above terra firma. Man has truly sought out many inventions, but whether this his latest and greatest, will ever be perfected is yet a question. Will the airship ever really and truly fly? "Maybe so when pigs have wings," sneers the skeptic. Mr. Wright is a big man, but he is up against a proposition bigger than himself. If man ever sails the skies with the ease and safety that he sails the seas, one thing is sure and certain: The whole plan of civilization, law and order will be revolutionized. Man's ambition and curiosity have led him about as far as the Maker of all intents for him to go.

Is there any relation between these two facts recorded side by side?

Statistics show that house keeping is on a boom. It has become a fad for wives to do their own cooking. Those who do not inherit the art are applying for "knowledge at the cooking school."

And—Statistics show that insurance agents are kept busier than ever, there being an increase of two to one in the number of applications for life insurance policies.

Comes a preacher out of North Carolina declaring that he can prove by the Bible that the earth is flat and does not revolve. But he himself believes that it is round and rotates on its axis. And then we read (Psalms XIX: 4-6) about the circuit of the sun. If the sun moves the earth does not.

But we are treading on dangerous ground. Whether the earth moves or not, its inhabitants are whirling around at an automobile pace that, if it doesn't slow up, is going to end up in spontaneous combustion or some other overwhelming cataclysm.

The Argus eye of the Ladies Home Journal is turned threateningly on the moving picture show, claiming that it incites to crime. On the other hand it often touches the heart and conscience. There is nothing more impressive than music and pictures, and good subjects tend to mental and moral uplift, just as bad ones have the opposite effect.

To an inhabitant returning after a six months absence, Bryan never looked prettier or cleaner than at present. The lawns are fresh and green and well clipped, inside the fences and on the outside also. More interest in the growing of flowers and shrubs is apparent. Main street looks clean swept and well kept. There are many homes here that would do credit to any city,

50 PIANOS 50 TO BE SOLD IN TEN DAYS

We realize as well as you that price and terms will have to do this. Money invested in a piano now will go twice as far than at any other time. On account of being overcrowded with new pianos in our principal stores, we are forced to sell our surplus stock. Our shrewd all-State buyer obtained such a flattering price on many high-grade pianos with which to supply our branch stores that we are compelled to reduce our stock on hand in order to make room for these shipments. In order to do this we are giving the people of Bryan and vicinity an opportunity of a life-time to obtain a high-grade piano at unheard-of price. You may never again have such a chance to buy a strictly high-grade piano on such favorable terms.

Just Look at These Descriptions and Prices.

and the churches, taken all in all, outclass those in larger towns. And the people—But words fail when we think of the dainty, pretty girls, of the beautiful, handsomely gowned matrons, of the sweet faced grandmothers—their intellect, their so evident keeping abreast of the world of men, women and events. Now if we only had the trolley, so that in sultry weather such as this, young and old, rich and poor, could get on and ride, getting a breath of fresh air after the long, hot day.

SEALED BIDS.

Sealed bids will be received up to 4 o'clock July 16th, for the privilege of conducting a stand for the sale of refreshments, lunches, cigars, soft drinks, ice cream, etc., at the A. and M. college during the Farmers Congress, July 27, 28, 29, 30, 1909. No intoxicating drinks will be allowed.

Eat Your Favorite Food Without Any Fear or Distress.

Don't think you have catarrh of the stomach just because you are distressed after eating or have sour eructations.

The simplest kind of food will cause belching of gas, heaviness, dizziness and biliousness if the stomach isn't right.

It's a very easy matter to feed the stomach right and if you will just swallow one or two little Mi-o-na tablets before, with or after meals, You'll discover that all stomach trouble is unnecessary.

Mi-o-na is a great big help to a tired, wornout or overworked stomach. It quickly puts it into such perfect condition that the most hearty meal can be eaten and digested with pleasure.

And please bear in mind that while Mi-o-na is guaranteed to quickly banish all the ordinary stomach ills that it is also guaranteed by E. J. Jenkins to cure indigestion, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach or money back.

It matters not how long standing is the disease Mi-o-na will cure if you give it a chance. If it doesn't you can have your money back.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets only costs 50 cents at E. J. Jenkins and leading druggists everywhere.

HYOMEI
(Pronounced High-O-Mei)
